THE BIG STORY À la une

Democrats Win the House and the Senate

By The Lucerna newsroom Reading level: A2

On Tuesday, November 3, Americans voted in the midterm election – for all 435 seats in the House of Representatives, for 35 seats in the Senate, and for governor in 36 states. By Sunday, November 8, the count was clear enough to call: the Democrats won the House, and the Democrats won the Senate.

The numbers, as called by the Associated Press on Sunday, November 8: in the House, 254 seats for the Democrats and 162 for the Republicans, with 19 races still uncalled. The majority is 218. In the Senate, the Democrats won 20 of the 33 races called, and the Republicans 13, with two races – in Alaska and Mississippi – still uncalled.

Before the vote, the Republicans held the House, 218 seats to 214, and the Senate, 53 to 47. On election night, seven Senate seats changed hands – in Iowa, Kansas, Maine, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina and Texas – and all seven went to the Democrats. Five governors' offices changed hands too: Georgia, Iowa, Nevada, Ohio and Texas.

A "call" is not the official result. News organisations call a race when the maths is clear. The official result comes later, when each state checks its count and certifies it – between November 10 and December 18. Until then, the numbers can still move a little. Page 6 explains how to read them.

The new Congress meets in January 2027. Until then, the old Congress finishes its work – and the winners plan theirs. This week also brings the jungle back to television, a look back at last year's Ashes, and a new Hunger Games film to the cinema. Welcome back to VOL.4!

The Week After the Vote: What Happens Now?

By The Lucerna newsroom Reading level: A2

The vote is over. The counting is not. On Monday, November 9, the day this issue went to press, election workers in many states were still opening mail ballots and checking signatures. In Alaska and Mississippi, the Senate races were still too close to call.

What happens next? First, the states certify their counts – between November 10 and December 18. Georgia law calls for a runoff on December 1 only if no candidate wins a majority – but Jon Ossoff won reelection with about 59% of the vote, so there is no runoff. Mississippi has no runoff: the most votes win. Then the winners are sworn in, and the new Congress meets in January 2027.

In Washington, the parties choose their leaders. The Republicans in the House vote on Tuesday, November 10. The Democrats in the House vote on November 18 and 19. The Speaker – the leader of the House – is chosen when the new Congress meets in January. The Speaker, Mike Johnson, has said he will not run to lead the Republicans in the new Congress.

TWO HOUSES, TWO JOBS

Why two houses? The House of Representatives has 435 seats, and every seat is on the ballot every two years. The Senate has 100 seats, and about a third of them are on the ballot each time. A senator serves for six years. A member of the House serves for two. That is why the House changes fast, and the Senate changes slowly.

SENATE IN NUMBERS Le Sénat

100 – seats in the Senate. 35 – seats on the ballot on November 3. 6 – years in a senator's term.

Life goes on around the politics. Next week is Thanksgiving week in America. Thanksgiving Day is Thursday, November 26 – a day for family, for a big dinner, and for the turkey. Many families travel home, and the Friday after it, November 27, is Black Friday, the biggest shopping day of the year.

And in Britain? The week is quieter – but the television is not. On Monday, November 16, at 9 p.m., the jungle opens again: I'm a Celebrity is back on ITV1. Page 3 has the story – and the words you need for the jungle.

THE CALENDAR Calendrier

10 nov. – les républicains choisissent leur chef · 18–19 nov. – les démocrates votent

20 nov. – Journée mondiale de l'enfance · 26 nov. – Thanksgiving · 27 nov. – Black Friday

WHAT IS ON THIS WEEK?

Second story of the week – and it is on your screen. On Friday, November 20, the new Hunger Games film opens in cinemas, and the ATP Finals end in Turin on Sunday, November 22. On Saturday, November 21, the Premier League is back – and page 4 looks back at the Ashes. Page 3 has the film guide, page 4 the sport.

On television, the week is just as full. I'm a Celebrity opens on Monday night, and the jungle will be on every night for weeks. Thanksgiving is a week away – and the turkey is already in the shops.

How do you say the date of the new Congress? "In January 2027." is the sentence of the week. The phrase box below shows three ways to say it.

Note | to certify = confirmer officiellement · a runoff = un second tour.

Friday at the Movies: Haymitch Goes Back to the Arena

By The Lucerna newsroom Reading level: A2 → B1

On Friday, November 20, a familiar name returns to the cinema: Haymitch Abernathy. “The Hunger Games: Sunrise on the Reaping” tells the story of the young Haymitch – sixteen years old, from District 12 – in the 50th Hunger Games, the Second Quarter Quell, when twice as many young people were sent into the arena.

The film is based on the novel by Suzanne Collins, published in 2025. Joseph Zada plays the young Haymitch. McKenna Grace plays Maysilee Donner, his fellow tribute from District 12. Ralph Fiennes plays the young President Snow. Francis Lawrence, who directed the earlier Hunger Games films, directs this one too.

Fans of the first films will know what happens next: Haymitch wins the 50th Games – and becomes the tired, funny, clever mentor of the later stories, played in the first films by Woody Harrelson. This film shows how he got there: a boy from District 12, in the cruellest Games of all.

And on the small screen? On Monday, November 16, at 9 p.m., “I'm a Celebrity... Get Me Out of Here!” returns to ITV1 and ITVX. Ant and Dec are back in the Australian jungle, near Murwillumbah in New South Wales. The launch is a day later than usual – because England play Spain in the Nations League on Sunday, November 15. ITV has not confirmed the campmates yet: the names will come a few days before the launch.

Two jungles, one week: a painted jungle in the cinema, and a real jungle on television. In one, the prize is survival. In the other, the prize is the public's vote – and the title of King or Queen of the Jungle.

COMING SOON Bientôt

Fri Nov 20 – “The Hunger Games: Sunrise on the Reaping” opens in cinemas. The album of songs from the film arrives a week earlier, on Nov 13.

Mon Nov 16 – “I'm a Celebrity” opens on ITV1, 9 p.m. “Unpacked”, the companion show, is on ITV2.

Sun Nov 15 – “How to Survive the Jungle”, a one-off special, before the launch.

A film is not only a story – it is also English practice. Listen for three things: the catchphrase (the line everybody repeats), the joke (why does the room laugh?), and the ending (happy, sad, or open?). After the film, try to tell the story in five English sentences.

And if you stay at home, the same rule works for a series: one episode, five sentences, in English. The best five-sentence reviews will be printed in VOL.5 – send yours to the newsroom.

Note | a tribute = un tribut choisi · a mentor = un mentor · the arena = l'arène · a campmate = un camarade de camp.

Perth, One Year On: How Australia Kept the Ashes

By The Lucerna newsroom Reading level: B1

A year ago, the Ashes came to Perth. On Friday, November 21, 2025, Australia played England in the first Test at Perth Stadium – the first Ashes Test at the ground. Australia won in two days, by eight wickets. It was the shortest Ashes Test, by balls bowled, since 1888.

The series ran from November 21, 2025, to January 8, 2026. Australia won the first three Tests – in Perth, in Brisbane and in Adelaide – and kept the Ashes after the third Test. England won the fourth Test, in Melbourne, by four wickets: their first Test win in Australia for almost fifteen years. Australia won the fifth Test, in Sydney, by five wickets. The final score was 4–1.

Australia had problems before the first Test. Their captain, Pat Cummins, was out with a back injury, and the fast bowler Josh Hazlewood was out with a hamstring injury. Steve Smith led the side instead. Scott Boland played, and the young fast bowler Brendan Doggett played his first Test.

England's team was more settled. Ben Stokes was the captain. Joe Root, the batter England needed most, was in the team, with Jofra Archer and Mark Wood to bowl fast. England had not won a Test series in Australia since 2010–11 – they lost 4–0 on their last two tours, in 2017–18 and 2021–22. The last series, in England in 2023, was drawn.

One Test lasts up to five days – but two Tests in this series lasted only two. The first Test in Perth ended in two days, and so did the fourth Test in Melbourne. The Ashes are not a sport for early nights.

Back home, football returns too. The Premier League is back on Saturday, November 21, after the international break: Manchester City play Fulham at 12:30, and Newcastle play Arsenal at 5:30. On Sunday, November 22, Liverpool play Manchester United at 4:30 – and the ATP Finals end in Turin, with the singles final not before 6 p.m. local time.

And American football? Week 11 opens on Thursday, November 19, with the Colts at the Texans. On Sunday, November 22, the Vikings play the 49ers in Mexico City, at 8:20 p.m. Eastern. The Patriots, after Munich, have the week off.

WHY PERTH? Pourquoi Perth ?

Perth Stadium hosted its first Ashes Test in November 2025. The city was not in the 2021–22 tour at all. Australia lost their first Test at the ground in November 2024, by 295 runs to India – and won their first Ashes Test there in two days, a year later.

How do you follow three sports in one day? Choose one game to watch fully, and follow the others on your phone. That is the modern fan: one screen for the game, one screen for the scores.

The ATP Finals in Turin run from Sunday, November 15, to Sunday, November 22. The eight best singles players of the year play in two groups of four: Alexander Zverev, Carlos Alcaraz, Ben Shelton, Daniil Medvedev, Flavio Cobolli, Arthur Fils, Frances Tiafoe and Rafael Jodar. The champion of the last two years, Jannik Sinner, is out with a knee injury.

Break the Silence: Odd Socks and Loud Voices

By The Lucerna newsroom Reading level: B1

On Monday, November 16, schools across Britain do something strange: children and teachers wear odd socks. One red sock, one blue sock – on purpose. It is Odd Socks Day, the first day of Anti-Bullying Week, and this year is its tenth birthday.

Anti-Bullying Week runs from Monday, November 16, to Friday, November 20. It is organised by the Anti-Bullying Alliance, and this year's theme is “Break the Silence”. The idea is simple: bullying is hardest to stop when nobody speaks about it. So the week asks children – and adults – to start conversations, to speak up, to listen, and to take action together.

The numbers are big: the campaign reaches about eight million children and young people, and more than 80% of schools in England, Wales and Northern Ireland take part. The theme was chosen with more than 200 children and young people, who said that speaking up was the hardest part.

Friday, November 20, is also World Children's Day – a day for children's rights around the world, led by UNICEF. This year's theme is “My day. My rights. My future.” The date marks the day in 1989 when the United Nations adopted the Convention on the Rights of the Child.

What can one child do? Tell a teacher. Tell a parent. Tell a friend. And if you see someone alone at lunch, sit with them. A small act is not small to the person it helps – and a loud voice starts with one sentence.

ODD SOCKS, IN NUMBERS Chiffres

10 – years of Odd Socks Day. 8 million – children reached by the week. 200 – children who helped choose this year's theme.

If you want to practise Monday-morning English, try this: wear odd socks, and explain them in English. “I wear odd socks for Anti-Bullying Week. Different is good.” Three sentences – and a whole week of practice.

Note | bullying = le harcèlement · to speak up = parler franchement · a right = un droit · silence = le silence

FRIDAY'S WORDS

“My day. My rights. My future.” – the words of World Children's Day, Friday, November 20. Three short sentences, one big idea: children have a voice, and the world should listen.

Chaque enfant a des droits | Every child has rights = Chaque enfant a des droits.

The Map After November 3: Reading the Results

By The Lucerna newsroom Reading level: B2

The vote is counted. The map is still being drawn. On Tuesday, November 3, Americans voted for the House, for a third of the Senate, and for governor in 36 states. By the Sunday after the vote, November 8, the Associated Press had called the big question: the Democrats had won both houses of Congress.

Here is the map, as called on Sunday, November 8. In the House, the Democrats won 254 seats, the Republicans 162, and 19 races were still uncalled. In the Senate, the Democrats won 20 of the 33 races called and the Republicans 13, with Alaska and Mississippi still uncalled. Seven Senate seats changed hands, and all seven went to the Democrats: Iowa, Kansas, Maine, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina and Texas.

What does “called” mean? A call is a news organisation's judgement: the maths is clear, and the candidate behind cannot catch up. It is not the official result. The official result comes when each state certifies its count – between November 10 and December 18, with no fixed date in some states. In Georgia, a Senate race with no majority winner goes to a runoff on December 1 – but this time Jon Ossoff won reelection with about 59% of the vote, so there was no runoff. Mississippi has no runoff in a regular election: the candidate with the most votes wins.

What changes? In January 2027, the new Congress meets, with a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate. The two parties choose their leaders first: the House Republicans on November 10, the House Democrats on November 18 and 19. The Speaker – the leader of the House – is chosen when the new Congress meets in January. The Speaker, Mike Johnson, has said he will not run to lead the Republicans in the new Congress.

What does not change? The President stays the same, and so does the White House. A midterm changes Congress, not the President. That is the American system: the voters speak in the middle of a President's term, and the two sides must then work – or argue – together. The map is drawn. The work starts in January.

A PRACTICE BALLOT Bulletin test

For Governor: ☐ Candidate A · ☐ Candidate B. For the House: ☐ Candidate C · ☐ Candidate D. Names are codes here – this ballot teaches how to mark, not whom to choose.

A note on numbers in this issue: this paper prints the calls of Sunday, November 8, and says so. The calls can still move a little as the count goes on – and this paper will not guess the final numbers. When the certified results are in, VOL.5 will report them.

Note | to call a race = annoncer le résultat · to certify = confirmer officiellement · a runoff = un second tour · a map = une carte politique.

READ THE CHART Graphique

How big was the change? The chart is the calls of Sunday, November 8 – not the certified results, and not a prediction.

House called: 254 Democrats, 162 Republicans, 19 uncalled (Nov 8)

Senate called: 20 Democrats, 13 Republicans, 2 uncalled (Nov 8)

Senate flips: 7, all to the Democrats

Governors flipped: 5, all to the Democrats

States certify: November 10 to December 18

Runoff, if needed: December 1 (Georgia only)

A voting booth in the Old State House, Hartford, Connecticut: one voter, one ballot, one private moment. On Tuesday, November 3, millions of Americans did the same.

HOW LONG? Durée du mandat

House: 2 years, all 435 seats each midterm. Senate: 6 years, about a third each election. President: 4 years. Governor: usually 4 years.

FIFTY ELECTIONS

One country, fifty systems: that is why American election night is a map, not a single number. Learn the map, and the night makes sense.

Une carte : cinquante États, cinquante règles – c'est pourquoi, le soir des élections, on regarde une carte, pas un seul chiffre.

WORDS A2 win / won

Note | Win est au présent (on gagne à chaque fois) ; won est au passé (on a déjà gagné) – cette semaine, on emploie surtout le passé.

win = to get first place. won = the past of win.

A2: “The Democrats won the House.” The vote is over, so the verb is in the past: won, not win.

Try it: win / won – ask “Will England win the next Ashes?” about the future: the next series is in England, in June 2027. About last year: “Australia won the first Test.”

WORDS B1 more than

Note | comparative = le comparatif : avec more than, on parle de quantité et de taille.

more than = a bigger number than. In the House, 254 is more than 218. The majority is 218 – and 254 is 36 more than the majority.

B1: “254 seats is more than the 218 needed.” With numbers, use more than: more people, more seats, more votes.

Try it: “The film is longer than the trailer.” “The book is cheaper than the film.”

GRAMMAR A2 will + verb

Note | will + infinitif : pour ce qui va se passer ; dans les questions, will se met au début.

The counting will continue. The new Congress will meet in January. Will the count change? Nobody knows.

Rule: will + verb, no -s, no -ed. “She will win.” “They will vote.” Question: “Will they watch the jungle?”

GRAMMAR B1 past simple

Note | past simple = le prétérit : pour ce qui s'est déjà passé ; il faut apprendre les verbes irréguliers.

Use the past for the past: Collins published the novel in 2025. Haymitch won the 50th Games. England lost 4–0 in 2021–22. India beat Australia by 295 runs.

Irregular verbs in this issue: win → won, lose → lost, beat → beat, choose → chose, run → ran.

GRAMMAR B2 headlines

Note | headline present = le présent des titres : les journaux racontent au présent ce qui s'est déjà passé.

Newspapers use the present in headlines for what already happened: “Democrats Win the House and the Senate” – the vote was on November 3, but the headline says Win, not Won. The present makes the news feel fresh.

GRAMMAR B2 whether

Note | whether introduit une subordonnée : pour ce qu'on ne sait pas, on emploie whether.

Nobody knows whether the count will change. Nobody knows whether it will rain in Perth. Whether = if – for what you do not know.

MODEL Texte modèle

On Monday, November 16, I wore odd socks to school – one red, one blue. My teacher smiled and said, “Break the silence.” In the evening, we watched the jungle on television together with my family. On Tuesday, we read about the election in class: the Democrats won the House with 254 seats. On Friday, we will watch the new Hunger Games film. It is a busy week of votes, socks and stories – and I am learning to say it all in English.
